Within my experience as a professional I have had the possibility of being part of the team of the Digital Laboratory of the Museum of Memory of Colombia where my role as a web-mobile designer has been to bring all the museum's contents within the web platform, design being the cross tool of all my projects. Thanks to this experience, I have been able to focus much more on UX / UI design for the needs of my projects.

For me, design is a flexible tool that puts all knowledge to the limit to create solid components focused on the generation of products or ideas that reflect changes and advances at a social, cultural or spatial level. I am very passionate about this, how objects, spaces and thoughts can be adapted and modified according to the conditions, needs or urgencies that arise daily.
